The Honorable Kevin McCarthy
Minority Leader
U.S. House of Representatives
Room H-204, The Capitol

Dear Speaker Pelosi and Minority Leader McCarthy:

As the House of Representatives moves to consider the reconciliation package on the floor, we write on behalf of America's colleges and universities to express our strong support for this measure.

We are particularly appreciative that nearly $40 billion is included in the legislation for students and institutions. While this amount falls short of our most recent estimate of at least $97 billion in student and institutional needs (and is far less than the $183 billion identified in a recent independent estimate¹) it represents the largest federal effort so far to address the crippling impact of the pandemic on colleges and universities.

This legislation also continues to provide additional dedicated support to Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), Tribal Colleges and Universities (TCUs), Hispanic-Serving Institutions (HSIs) and other Minority-Serving Institutions (MSIs) to address the disproportionate effect of the pandemic on those institutions and their students. This is a critical step in the effort to tackle historic funding inequities for these schools, a gap only exacerbated by the pandemic.

In addition, the bill contains a provision amending the current 90/10 rule to close an existing loophole that didn't categorize federal programs for active duty military and veterans' education benefits as federal funding. We have long supported closing this loophole in order to ensure that the rule works as intended.

Finally, earlier versions of the bill included specific language providing institutions the sole authority to determine student eligibility for emergency aid. We understand that the language raised technical issues related to the reconciliation process and had to be removed, but we appreciate the clear expression of support for those students. We strongly believe that the Department of Education already has sufficient authority to ensure that all students harmed by the pandemic are able to receive the help they need.

We urge the House to pass this measure as quickly as possible so that needed relief funds reach students and institutions in a timely manner. Thank you again for your support.
